C. Hi John,
 I arrived in the USA last Monday. We left X Rome, flew over X and made a quick stop in X London. Then we went shopping in the Harrods, visited the tower and enjoyed a sunny afternoon in the Hyde Park. On the following day we left for X New York. The time on board wasn't boring as there were two films to watch on the monitor. The people on the plane were all X Italians. Before we landed at the JFK airport, we saw the Statue of Liberty and the Empire State Building. The hotel I stayed in was on the corner of the 42nd Street and the 5th Avenue. I don't like the hotels very much, but I didn't have the time to rent an apartment.

A. An old farmer lived in a village. He had four sons. All of them were lazy and idle. They often quarrelled among themselves. The old man was very much annoyed. So he called his four sons and told them that since his end was near, he wanted to teach them a lesson and wanted to give them a useful piece of advice. He sent for a bundle of sticks, which was brought. He asked all his sons, one by one to break the bundle of the sticks. All tried hard, but none of them was able to break the bundle. Then he asked one of them to unite the bundle. This was also done immediately. Then he asked each of them to break the sticks individually. Now each one succeeded in doing so. The old farmer then said to them to them, "If you live together in peace, none can harm you. But if are divided, you will lose."

G. One day Akbar asked his courtiers, "What is the thing that travels faster in the world?" One of the courtiers said, "Bullock cart," another said, "Wind", yet another said, "Light." Akbar waited for Birbal's answer and then Birbal spoke, "Your Majesty! The thoughts in the mind travel the fastest. In a moment you are in this court and in the next moment your thoughts will take you somewhere else. So, thought is the fastest thing in the world. Everyone was very surprised at Birbal's answer. Akbar was proud of Birbal's wisdom and rewarded him suitably.

Once a fox was very hungry as it could not get anything to eat for a long time. It strolled in search of food. It searched all along the jungle but its efforts were in vain. There was a garden near the forest. It went there in search of food.

There it saw vine of grapes, ripe grapes, were hanging from the bunches. Its mouth began to water. It wanted to eat them. So, it jumped again and again, to reach them, but in vain. The grapes were hanging too high for it to get to them. At last it gave up the attempt and went away saying. "The grapes are sour".

One beautiful spring day a red rose blossomed in a forest. Many kinds of trees and plants grew there, as the rose looked around, a pine tree nearby said, "What a beautiful flower! I wish I was that lovely". Another tree said, "Dear Pine, do not be sad, we cannot have everything".

The rose turned its head and remarked, "It seems that I am the most beautiful plant in this forest." A sunflower raised its yellow head and asked, "Why do you say that? In this forest there are many beautiful plants. You are just one of them." The red rose replied, "I see everyone looking at me and admiring me." The rose looked at a cactus and said, "Look at that ugly plant full of thorns!" The pine tree said, "Red rose, what kind of talk is this? Who can say what beauty is? You have thorns too."

The proud red rose looked angrily at the pine and said, "I thought you had good taste! You do not know what beauty is at all. You cannot compare my thorns to that of the cactus."

"What a proud flower!", thought the trees.

The rose tried to move its roots away from the cactus, but it could not move. As the days passed, the red rose would look at the cactus and say insulting things, like: This plant is useless? How sorry I am to be his neighbour.

The cactus never got upset and he even tried to advise the rose, saying, "God did not create any form of life without a purpose."

Spring passed, and the weather became very warm. Life became difficult in the forest, as the plants and animals needed water due to no rainfall. The red rose began to wilt.

One day the rose saw sparrows stick their beaks into the cactus and then fly away, refreshed. This was puzzling, and the red rose asked the pine tree what the birds were doing. The pine tree explained that the birds got water from the cactus. "Does it not hurt when they make holes?" asked the rose.

"Yes, but the cactus does not like to see any birds suffer," replied the pine.

The rose opened its eyes in wonder and said, "The cactus has water?"

"Yes, you can also drink from it. The sparrow can bring water to you. Ask the cactus for help."

The red rose felt too ashamed of its past words and went to ask for water from the cactus. The cactus kindly agreed and the birds filled their beaks with water and watered the rose's roots. Thus the rose learned a lesson never to judge by the appearance.

Once there was a small boy named Ravinder. He belonged to a poor family. One day, he was crossing through forest carrying some wood. He saw an old man who was very hungry. Ravinder wanted to give him some food, but he did not have food for his own. So he continued on his way. On his way he saw a deer who was very thirsty. He wanted to give him some water, but he did not have water for himself. So he went on his way ahead. Then he saw a man who wanted to make a camp but he did not have wood. Ravinder asked his problem and gave some wood to him. In return, he gave him some food and water. Now he went back to the old man and gave him some food and gave some water to the deer.

The old man and the deer were very happy. Ravinder then happily went on his way, however, one day Ravinder fell down the hill. He was in pain but he couldn't move and no one pulled him up the hill. He had many wounds on his legs. The deer whom Ravinder had given water, saw his wound and quickly went to forest and brought some herbs. After sometime his wounds were recovered. All were very happy that they were able to help each other.

It was the summer season. The day was very hot, so a crow became thirsty. It flew here and there in search of water. But it could not find water anywhere.

After some time, the crow came across a pot that was lying under a tree. It looked into, and found that there was water, but at a very low level, and it was not possible for it to drink it with its beak. It was disheartened.

The crow suddenly saw a heap of pebbles which were lying under a tree nearby.

An idea came to its mind that by dropping the pebbles into the pot, the level of the water could be raised to a high level. So, he began to drop the pebbles one by one into the pot; and finally, the level of the water was raised and it drank it to its heart's content. What an intelligent crow it was!

Subject: Application for permission to use library during recess

Respected Sir

This is to inform you that I am preparing for the upcoming inter-school G. K. Competition. I want to read G. K. and current affair magazines in the library during recess to prepare for it.

I would be grateful if you kindly allow me to use the library during recess.

Yours obediently

Shraddha Sawant
